

The Grain Chain from 1500-2010

History

Now you have explored today's grain chain and the general history of bread and flour production in the UK it's time to use your investigative skills and imagination to create a 'time-line' from 1500 to 2010 which shows:

- * Major bread-making tools and techniques of the period (including ideas for new breads from today to 2010, including the use of new technology to revolutionise food production)
- * Personalities and people involved with bread production, milling and farming. Again, you can use your imagination to consider the sort of people that will be involved in food production in the near future

Once you have a time line, use it to form the basis of an imaginary TV series exploring the history and future of bread in the UK. You will have 6 episodes to fill with exciting, imaginative history!